

Press Release

1st June 2020

GDHV to supply all Xpelair ventilation products directly to ME market from June 01

From 1st June 2020, Glen Dimplex Heating and Ventilation will supply all Xpelair ventilation products directly to the Middle East Market.

This is a strategic decision based on our need to be closer, as a product developer and manufacturer, to the specification of ventilation products designed for specific use in the region.

The move comes after seven years of successful trading and business development with Glen Dimplex Middle East under Kingston Holdings FZC, who will continue to distribute other Glen Dimplex Group products, including key industrial items.

Kingston will still be responsible for the distribution, marketing and supply of both the Burco water boiling and Morphy Richards small domestic appliances product ranges.

Rod Baldwin, International sales Director said: "We will be using the initial period in June to contact key customers and begin the process of setting up direct supply accounts.

"Kingston will still have stock of Xpelair and continue to supply the marketplace during this period, as well as continuing to have stock of certain products for the remainder of 2020.

"We are forever indebted to Kingston FZC for their hard work and commitment in moving Xpelair forward and further strengthening the brand position across these key markets."
